

Online Ordering Marketing Kit for Restaurants

Create and print marketing materials to encourage guests to order online directly from you—helping you both save money. Plus, tips on how to optimize your online messaging.

What you need

- Your restaurant logo
- Your restaurant website URL (e.g. www.bluebarngourmet.com)
- Optional: The direct URL to your online ordering page
- An account on Canva.com (if you don't already have an account, don't worry, it's free)
- A QR code directing to your website

Need to create a QR code? Visit www.qr-code-generator.com to make one for free. Just type in your website URL (or better yet, the direct URL to your online ordering page) and download your custom QR code.

“Order from us!” postcard

1. Customize our free template with your logo, website, brand colors, and QR code
2. Order prints directly from Canva or download the file to print locally
3. Place postcards in every takeout and delivery order to let customers know they can order directly from you next time

Pro tip: Change the black and gray background colors to match your brand colors.

Online presence to-do list

Make sure it's easy for guests to order directly from you when they find you online.

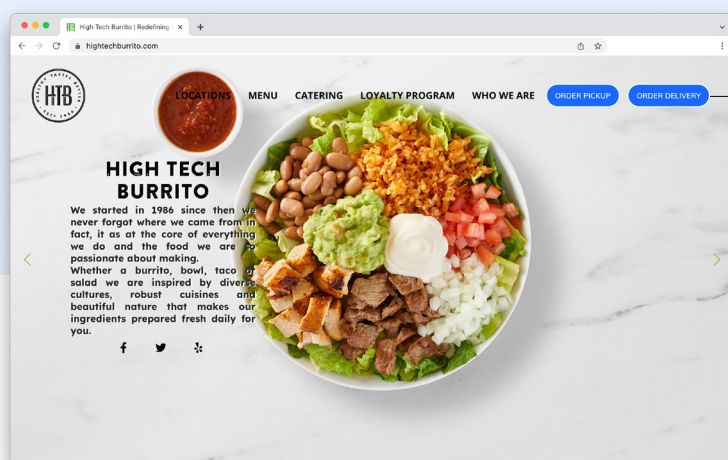

Add an "Order now" call-to-action (CTA) button or banner to your website.

Connect your online ordering to Order with Google to reach more guests. Learn how >

If you have buttons or widgets on your website advertising 3rd party delivery apps, feel free to remove them if you no longer want to funnel your takeout and delivery to them.

Add an "Order now" CTA to your Facebook and Instagram pages.

Make sure your online ordering menu is optimized, and includes photos! Learn how >
